Mary : Ray, can I ask you something?

Ray : Sure.

Mary : What is this poster?

Ray : Just good old Einstein. You know who Einstein is, right?

Mary : Of course I know who Einstein is. He is the man who thought of the Theory of Relativity! But why is he sticking out his tongue?

Ray : Ah, that. Funny story, really. On Einstein's 72nd birthday, ①(asked / smile / photographers / him / to / some) for the camera. He was tired because he was smiling for a long time. So he stuck out his tongue instead. At last it became one of the most popular and famous photos.

Mary : ( I ) Now, I remember an interesting story about Albert Einstein and Charlie Chaplin.

Ray : I'd love to hear it. Tell me more.

Mary : Well, the great physicist and the great comedian movie actor once met each other in Los Angeles. Einstein told Chaplin that he was a great man because everyone in the world was able to understand him and his movies.

Ray : Of course! Chaplin is great. My favorite movie is The Great Dictator. He plays Hitler in it.

Mary : Ray, stop! Can't you just listen for a minute?

Ray : ( II ) Please, keep speaking.

次の英文を読んで、1～5の問いに答えなさい。

Jackson, a boy in Kenya, gets up very early. His home is a hut far from any village. He has to walk 15 kilometers through the savannah to get to school. There are elephants, lions, and other wild animals on the way. “Be careful of the elephants,” his father says. “And take care of your sister Salome. I hope you get to school safely.” With this prayer, the children leave.

“Look over there!” Suddenly, the elephants come close. “Run!” Jackson pulls Salome along and they hide for some time. “OK! ① They have gone!”

For Jackson, just to get to school is a challenge. ② But it isn’t a problem for him. His dream is to be a pilot. For him, school is a step to a dream.

In India, three young brothers, Samuel, Emmanuel, and Gabriel, also get up early. Their mother massages Samuel’s legs. He is physically challenged and cannot move his legs. Emmanuel and Gabriel bring a wheelchair made by them and put Samuel into it. “Be careful,” their mother says. Emmanuel and Gabriel push the wheelchair. The road to school is not good. ( A ), four kilometers is a long way to go.

Suddenly, the wheelchair gets stuck. What’s wrong? One of the tires has gone flat. They have to push the wheelchair much harder to bring it to a bicycle shop. Finally, they get to school. The students happily carry Samuel into the classroom. He is laughing. Samuel says, “I’m lucky. Many of my friends had to leave school for different reasons, but ③ I didn’t,” he says, “We are born and will die with nothing. So I want to help others while I can. My dream is to be a doctor and help children like me.”

What do you think of these children? They love studying in school. For them, the road to school is the road to their dreams. Do you feel the same way? What is school to you?

(注) hut = 小屋    savannah = サバンナ    prayer = 祈り
